"Times, of Course"

That's what all the newsboys say when asked which Barre paper sells the best. There is no doubt about it.

The Essex County Herald, the only newspaper in Essex county, passed its 25th milestone last week, and it looks forward confidently to another quarter century. Success to it.

"When a young fellow gets married he has to work hard to earn money to pay another person's board. That's the correct definition of married life," says a young man who is resting in jail for having clipped the hair from one side of his wife's head. A terrible warning but strangely enough it will not be heeded.

The superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League is reported to have said that the first fight which the league will make will be to vote out the saloon in the towns where the sentiment is against it. The league ought to have an easy problem in hand for any town in which the sentiment is really against the licensing of saloons will not vote for them.

Vermont loses a loyal son and one of its best citizens in the death of Col. Robert J. Kimball of Randolph. He is of the type of men who would reflect credit upon any town or commonwealth, and his death is regretted by all. As in the case of several other Vermonters his memory will be kept alive in his native town by the beautiful Kimball Public Library building at Randolph, a recent benefaction. But it was not alone in his gifts that he will be remembered, but in his public service to the state which nurtured him. He was distinctly "a man of affairs, a citizen and a gentleman." He had held many offices in the gift of the town of Randolph, and the state at large, in all of which he showed much ability. Col. Kimball's death is a distinct loss to the state.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

Mark E. Davis of Norwich, picked and marketed twenty-one quarts of red raspberries last week at twenty cents per quart. This was a second crop.

The Universalist church and society of White River Junction have extended a call to the Rev. C. F. Borroughs, of Lowell, Mass., to become their pastor. He has accepted and will begin his labors here about the first of November.

A copy of the Baltimore American which has been received, contains the information that the committee on officers of the national convention of insurance commissioners, in session in that city, would recommend State Treasurer J. L. Bacon of Vermont, the vice president of the association, for its president the coming year.

It is understood that a public meeting in the interests of organized labor will soon be held at White River Junction. There is no labor union in town, but the employees of the International Paper Co. at White and many of the railroad men here are connected with some brotherhood or association, in some way allied with the state federation of workmen.

Attempt at Labor Reconciliation.
Pittsburg, Oct. 5.—It is reported that the former Amalgamated lodges at Joliet, Milwaukee and South Chicago are making an effort to rejoin the association. These lodges were suspended under a fine of $10,000 each for refusing to come out on a sympathetic strike during the big steel strike two years ago. It is said the leaders of the lodges will put the matter before the Civic federation and will try to have the federation intercede and have the Amalgamated lift the fine.

Steel Workers' Wages Cut.
Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—A notice has been posted in the steel mill of the Pottsville Iron works that wages would be reduced from 10 to 20 per cent. The wages of men earning under $4 per day will be cut 10 per cent, and those earning from $4 to $8 a day will suffer a reduction of 20 per cent. This order will effect chiefly the rollers, who earn the highest wages.

11 PERSONS DROWNED

In Squall on Lake Michigan Saturday Night.

STEAMER WAS CAPSIZED

Upper Works of Vessel Blown Away and Boat Was Then Turned Over.

Marquette, Wis., Oct. 4.—During a squall last night on Lake Michigan the steamer J. H. Hackley capsized and 11 persons were drowned. The Goodrich line steamer Sheboygan rescued the other seven persons on board the Hackley after they had drifted all night in Green bay, clinging to bits of wreckage, and brought them to Fish Creek today.

The Hackley was struck by the squall when off Green Island. The upper works of the vessel were blown away. The boat then turned over and went down in deep water.

THE BALKAN SITUATION.

Prince Ferdinand's Actions Taken to Indicate Less Fear of War.
Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 5.—Prince Ferdinand, accompanied by his mother and children, have arrived here, and his coming at this time is regarded as tending to show that war is not expected.

It is reported that the government has decided to proclaim martial law in the district of Kostendil, which embraces the whole southwestern frontier of Bulgaria. This report lacks official confirmation; but, if it is a fact, it proves the government's sincerity in its efforts to prevent Bulgarian bands from entering Macedonia, as almost all of these bands have crossed the frontier in this district.

Notwithstanding the evidences of improvement in the situation, it is certain that Turkish troops are massing on the Bulgarian frontier, especially in the Adrianople district, and this fact is causing some uneasiness, as it is feared that the soldiers may invade Bulgarian territory, which would result in conflicts.

Big Railroad Merger Coming.
New York, Oct. 5.—The Commercial Advertiser says that George J. Gould has informed some of the largest stockholders of railroads controlled by him that within a short time a plan for the consolidation of all of the Gould companies into one securities holding corporation will be submitted to a vote of the stockholders. Inasmuch as the Gould family and affiliated interests own the control of all of the railroads in the Gould system there is little doubt of a prompt endorsement of the plan proposed. The proposed consolidation of the Gould railroad interests does not contemplate any additional issue of stocks.

HOW DOWIE REPROVES.

Monist Leader's Characterization of His Son at a Ball Game.

John Alexander Gladstone Dowie, LL. D., son of the "prophet" John Alexander Dowie, had his ears boxed publicly by his revered father the other day, says a Chicago dispatch to the New York World. The fury of the father descended upon his son's head at a baseball game, in the excitement of which the young man had allowed his mortal tongue to express his mortal thoughts.

Half the population of Zion City was on hand to see the game. Sam Peters threw to second when he should have thrown to first.

"You d-d fool!" broke out Elijah III. The scandalized spectators fell back. Deacons and overseers gathered and discussed the situation. The master of Zion must know.

"You, Deacon Hardy, go to our healer, and may you have grace to break the news gently," said Deacon Mills. After a word of prayer Deacon Hardy started on a run. He found Dowie in the temple.

"Peace to thee, Dr. Dowie," he panted. He tremblingly told the prophet of his son's lapse. Like a flash Dowie was off in his chariot and four for the deserted spot. Apart from the onlookers stood the guilty one.

"Are," said the healer to his brother, "my hosts are obedient unto me. See how they shrink from the infected one. They will not be contaminated by him."

The coach was stopped. The father sprang to the ground and with his strong hand chastised his son.

"May you receive forgiveness from God, but from me take that and that and that!" he said as his son's head shook beneath the blows. John Alexander Gladstone Dowie, LL. D., slunk away home. At the Chicago university he recently graduated at law.

They Liked It.

The Berlin Society for the Protection of Animals addressed the question "How did you like it?" to the guests who participated in the howled banquet which it gave recently in Berlin. Over 300 replies have come in, and all make a strong chorus of praise.

Canine Mail Carrier.

In 1745 a dog carried the mail in Maine between the old fort which then stood just below Berry's Mills, a few miles out of Bath, to Portland and return. The mail bag was a small yellow pouch fastened under the intelligent canine's neck and attached to his collar.

On the Football Field.

The scurried boots with awful, padded shapes. In brave array are scattered o'er the field. The whistle blows, the pent-up rage escapes. And twenty-two fierce maniacs fly around And seek each other's blood, their eyes ablaze. Their frames all strung with perspiration's beads. While twenty thousand cohorts sing their praise. And urge them on to bloody, horrid deeds.

The fight is on! They kick and gouge and bite. The fallen men are jumped on. All is gay. The crowd laughs happily, with child's delight. As undertakers tote the dead away. The halt and maimed grin through their plastered strips. No scout would insure them for a dime. Each player to his sponge and lemon trips. Appreciating glory—and half time.

Again they fight! Chrysanthemum-like hair. New covers all the field three inches thick. Men fallers are repulsed. Each does his share. To flail and main opponent. Every kick. Does execution, and unheeded tears flow from the eyes of vanquished men in showers. And while attendants sweep up eyes and ears. The victors loudly cry, "The game is over!"—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A TORNADO WRECKS TOWN

St. Charles, Minn., Almost Wiped Out.

St. Charles, Minn., Almost Wiped Out by Sudden Storm.

MANY KILLED AND INJURED

Residents Pinned Beneath Wreckage of Their Business Places and Homes—Storm Widespread in the Neighboring States.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 5.—The little town of St. Charles, in Winona county, has been almost completely wiped out by a tornado. Seven people were killed, and twenty-eight were injured, many of them seriously. The entire main street of the town was literally wiped out, hardly a business place being left standing. Forty-two residences were destroyed, and the total property damage is estimated at $100,000. Among the buildings demolished were the Central school building, the Chicago Great Western depot, the Catholic church and Parrott's wagon works. The tornado struck the town from the southwest quarter and made a clean sweep through it, following almost entirely the line of the main street and devastating buildings on each side. Then the residences further back from the business center were struck and many of them blown completely away. It seems almost miraculous that there was not a greater loss of life.

Awful Suddenness of the Calamity.
A relief train was sent from Winona as soon as the news of the serious nature of the storm was received there, and physicians were soon busily engaged in caring for the injured and maimed. The storm came upon the town with such suddenness that it was filling the air with debris of buildings before the citizens realized the nature of the calamity. Many of those injured received their hurts from flying missiles, while others were caught beneath the wreckage of their business houses or homes and remained pinned down until rescued by the relief party. Another relief train left for St. Charles from Rochester with provisions and clothing for those who are destitute and homeless. So far no reports have been received of any loss of life in the country adjacent to St. Charles. The storm, however, seems to have followed very closely the boundary line between Minnesota and Iowa, and damage to farm buildings, dwellings and grain stacks, with injury to human beings and death to live stock, is reported from several points in that locality. The fury of the storm, however, seems to have spent itself in St. Charles.

Storm General in the Northwest.
Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 5.—Special dispatches to the Sentinel indicate a severe general storm throughout the northwest. The storm followed a hot wave, the thermometer in the city registering 80 degrees. Barefoot, Wis., reports a cloudburst more severe than was ever known in that section, lasting three hours. Fully four inches of water fell. Many buildings and windmills were blown down and cellars flooded and several washouts reported. At Oshkosh a terrific wind and rain storm raged, the wind blowing at fully fifty miles an hour. Chimneys, plate glass and wires were demolished.

Two Killed in Wisconsin.
Lacrosse, Wis., Oct. 5.—Two were killed, three fatally injured and a score of others badly hurt in a terrific which swept Independence, Wis., and the surrounding country. Many farm buildings in the storm's path were torn down. At Eagle Valley, north of here, the Reformed church was destroyed, and houses on the prairie surrounding were demolished.
